CHRISTIAN MANHOOD IS THE SUNDAY THEME

Rev. C. E. Crafton Preaches Sermon at Washington Street Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. C. E. Crafton spoke Sunday morning on "Christian Manhood" at the Washington street Presbyterian Church. Mr. Crafton spoke in part as follows:

Text—Eph. 4:13. "Till we all come in the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ."

Introduction.

It is the last clause of this verse that we desire to discuss. This is the beginning of a period of severe temptations. A time in which more idleness can be indulged more time squandered, and the old proverb "an idle man's brain is the Devil's workshop" is so true that it is wise to use every precaution against idleness, in order not to supply a place for Satan. Man is great, so great that he is perpetually striving after a loftier ideal; nothing that has limit can satisfy him. It is because there is an "infinite" in him. Thus Christian Manhood is the result of Christian growth.

Christian Growth.

A growth having its inception in the simple fact of becoming a Christian. It involves the quickening into a new life. In conversion we become "new creatures," having new vitality, new energy. The old morbid body of sin has been buried with Christ and we are formed anew in His likeness, being clothed with "a robe of true righteousness" which at this season of the year we need to draw closely about us, to protect us from the chilling influences of winter temptations so that our vitality may not be sapped and compel us to remain only weaklings, for we are striving to reach "perfect manhood," and it can be done only by Christian growth.

Continual Advancement.

2. A growth marking continual advancement. A child born into a home looks to be perfect, having all the essentials of a complete child, yet there is no advancement in his growth, something is seriously wrong, he will never become a full grown man. A child born into Zion needs a constant indwelling of the Holy Ghost to compel the growth necessary to Christian "Manhood."

3. A growth resulting from culture under divinely appointed agencies. The highest culture is possible only through the most rigid conformity to the laws of development and the appliance of the best agencies.

4. A growth the standard of whose completeness is the "fullness of Christ."

The stature—the adulthood the full grown manhood of Christ,—is the standard of growth whose attainment is the Christians noblest zeal.

Second Theme.

The elements of Christian manhood is my second sub-division.

1. Largeness.—In Christian views of truth, of man's need, of Christ's work, and of schemes and plans of its greater furtherance. There is no room for narrowness in Christian manhood. Religion does not contract but expands a man's vision. It helps us to see and appreciate the views of others, it enables us to realize our special need of Christ's work in us and to assist in the plans for the furtherance of His cause.

2. Dignity.—Not that false dignity that gives a man as haughty appearance that renders him obnoxious to all, but that deep enwrought sense of the true worth and greatness of his nature as a renewed man, and of his position as a child of God and joint-heir with Christ.

Courageousness.

3. Courageousness and strength. Courage makes a man put forth his best strength, while strength enables courage to achieve its best and noblest deeds.

The out-working of Christian manhood. It gives steadfastness. No longer weak children, but able to stand against the evil that presents itself in these days of temptation.

2. Sincerity.—Speaking the truth in love" refers both to the sincerity of life and our relation to the truth. Christian manhood has no insincere motives, no impure thoughts, only an ideal after which it is striving, and that ideal is Christ.

Further Growth.

3. A further growth.—As the full grown tree, leaves and blossoms and bears, as fruit after it is full grown, mellow, matures, sweetens, ripening for the garner, so we ripen for eternity by becoming Christ-like which brings true, Christian manhood. The supreme type of manhood is Christ-likeness. The ideal is conceived by faith, and the actual is attained only by the exercise of the same grace.

WEDDINGS!

The prospective bride looks for a token. If you were in her place, you would. At any rate, it is customary to hand her a little remembrance.

You might as well satisfy this customary habit. It won't cost you much. Pick out some little trinket in sterling silver. Any of them make highly appreciative little remembrances.

We don't know just why, but many of our patrons are buying silver engagement remembrances.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS ARE NOW NUMEROUS

Prosperity of Farming Communities Leading Factor.

New York, Oct. 19.—An undertone of strength and confidence was manifest in the financial markets, but its active expression was restrained by a waiting for the fulfillment of some of the factors which were the prospective causes for the hopeful sentiment. In the stock market itself a sentiment of reserve towards any great extension of commitments was distinguishable after the almost instantaneous restoration of the price level, with the cessation of the foreign liquidation. Undoubtedly this reserve was induced by the contemplation of the enormous credit expansion of the New York banks which had accompanied the acceptance of the foreign sales of American securities while the war scare was in force abroad. It was an impressive demonstration of absorptive power in the New York stock market that it should have taken over $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 of foreign holdings of American securities and then to have restored the impairment of prices which had resulted in a few minutes; but there stood the $25,000,000 loan increase of New York banking institutions for the same period.

Of the actual progress of the improvement in business there are many indications. The prosperity of the farming community is much dwelt upon, plentiful crops and good prices conducing to this showing. Future expansion in demand for commodities and growth of mercantile business are looked for as a result. Diminishing surplus of idle freight cars testifies to the tendency of railroad traffic, and returns of railroad earnings are beginning to show more satisfactory results.

Claim Voters Are Intimidated. Havana, Oct. 19.—There are indications that the Spanish element will play an important part in the approaching elections, the Conservatives having made an active and apparently successful campaign to enlist Spanish support. Of 36,000 Spaniards eligible for the franchise 23,000 have already registered. From Santa Clara province come complaints of intimidation of Conservative electors by hired Liberal braves. Cuba, a Conservative organ, appeals in an editorial to the Conservatives to resist such attacks by force of arms if necessary.

Bryan Not Apprehensive. St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 19.—William J. Bryan, during a short stay in St. Joseph on his way from his home to St. Louis spoke of Judge Taft's invasion of the south. "The trip of Judge Taft through the south will have no effect whatever on the voters of that section," said Mr. Bryan. "I do not feel the least apprehensive of the south's vote."
